FORENSIC CROSS-REFERENCES

1. A Sister Sharing Your Blood Has Been Actively Working Against You

The archive documents specific conduct by named family members that contributed to the institutional suppression of Dr. McLean's testimony. The documentation is in primary-source form. The "sister" framework — the person closest to the witness, within blood relationship, working against the witness — is documented, not asserted.

2. She Took Your Struggles Shared in Confidence and Placed Them in the Wrong Frame

The specific mechanism: truthful disclosures made within a family relationship were reframed as evidence of mental instability rather than evidence of institutional persecution. The wrong frame was then presented to institutional actors who used it to justify suppression.

3. She Positioned Herself as the Stable, Dependable Family Member

The documented public positioning of family members — including the Today Show appearance — established a public frame in which Dr. McLean was the "complicated" family member and the family spokesperson was the stable, reliable one. The archive documents the construction of this frame.

4. She Intercepted Your Seasons of Breakthrough With Surgical Precision

The pattern of family-network intervention at specific moments — proximate to disclosure escalations, legal filings, and breakthrough events — is documented across the 35-year timeline. The precision of the timing is documented.

5. Heaven's Exposure — The Archive Is the Exposure

The archive is the exposure. 491,000+ downloads. Every person who has read the documents naming family members in the context of the institutional persecution is a witness to heaven's exposure. The exposure is not supernatural. It is 2,304 primary-source documents.

6. The IChooseSilence Declaration — The Documented Separation

The formal IChooseSilence declaration separating from five named family members — blockchain-sealed, publicly distributed — is Dr. McLean's documented response to heaven's exposure of the sister network. The separation is the evidence that the exposure has been received and acted upon.
